1947-1958

Millard Gyte, Director

Gyte, as the first director of Purdue University's "Calumet Extension", single-handedly took on the difficult task of providing the school with its foundation. Securing a home for Calumet, starting a university faculty, and initiating a campus newspaper are among his many notable accomplishments. "Mr. Pucc" passed away in July 1958.

1974-1975

Carl Elliott, Chancellor

Elliott served Calumet for fifteen years: first as director, later as a director and dean, and finally, as its first chancellor in 1974; the year Calumet was autonomized. He contributed greatly to Calumet's growth during the years that nationwide unrest was experienced throughout many universities.

1975-1990

Richard J. Combs, Chancellor

Combs is credited with guiding Calumet from its adolescent stage well into maturity. Under his supervision, enrollment increased to over eight thousand students, the faculty nearly doubled, infrastructure was enhanced, and the activities offered to students were extended and diversified. It was he who persuaded the trustees to rename the campus Purdue University, Calumet. Combs stayed with Calumet until his retirement in 1990.

1990-2001

James Yackel, Chancellor

Yackel's leadership was said to have prepared Calumet in such a way that it would make an invaluable contribution to how Northwest Indiana encountered the challenges of the 21st century. During his 10 year presence as chancellor, enrollment witnessed a 10 percent surge, student scholarship dollars were increased, and new partnerships with industry and businesses were formed; he retired in July, 2001.

2001-present

Howard S. Cohen, Chancellor

Dr. Cohen became Calumet's fourth chancellor in 2001, and has been helping further its growth and recognition since his appointment. In 2007, studies showed that he had helped increase enrollments, raise admission requirements and increase the diversity on campus all at the same time through the school's strategic planning effort. Chancellor Cohen, who is guiding Calumet into the future, believes that by realizing the vision for Calumet, the region will be transformed, and headed for a bright future.

Purdue University's Board of Trustees consists of ten members, appointed by the governor of Indiana. Three of these members - one of whom must be a graduate of the College of Agriculture - are nominated by the Purdue Alumni Association. The 1975 General Assembly provided for the tenth member, a student. The Board selects the president of the University, decides major policy lines, approves the financial program and budget, approves the president's nominations for major appointments, and approves all construction and major contracts.
